

NEWS AFRICA

Home World UK England N. Ireland Scotland Wales Business Politics Health Education Sci/Environment Technology Entertainment & Arts

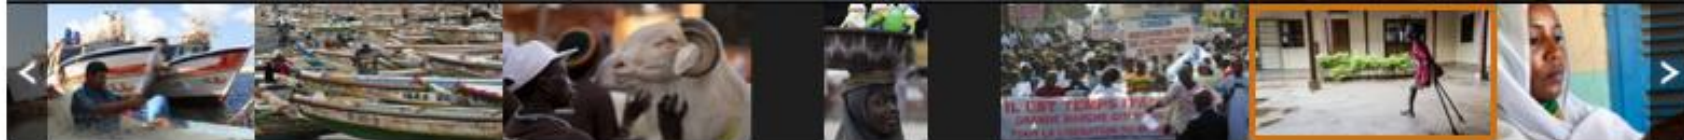

Africa Asia Europe Latin America Middle East US & Canada

12 October 2012 Last updated at 19:04

Africa in pictures: 5-11 October 2012

A seven-year-old South Sudanese amputee plays with a tennis ball at the Rehabilitation Centre of Juba on Wednesday. He lost his leg aged four after a mine he was playing with blew up, killing his mother.

NEWS AFRICA

Home World UK England N. Ireland Scotland Wales Business Politics Health Education Sci/Environment Technology Entertainment & Arts

Africa Asia Europe Latin America Middle East US & Canada

31 August 2012 Last updated at 10:50

Africa in pictures: 23-30 August 2012

On the same day, a South Sudanese market trader was pictured in Konyo Konyo market in Juba selling bananas imported from neighbouring Uganda.

NEWS AFRICA

Home World UK England N. Ireland Scotland Wales Business Politics Health Education Sci/Environment Technology Entertainment & Arts

Africa Asia Europe Latin America Middle East US & Canada

28 September 2012 Last updated at 17:59

Africa in pictures: 21-27 September 2012

On Tuesday, the day before Sudan and South Sudan signed a deal on trade, oil and security, easing tensions that brought the two countries to the brink of war this year, South Sudanese fishermen near the border in Malakal work in a handmade boat on the River Nile.

NEWS AFRICA

Home World UK England N. Ireland Scotland Wales Business Politics Health Education Sci/Environment Technology Entertainment & ArtsAfrica Asia Europe Latin America Middle East US & Canada

21 September 2012 Last updated at 17:15

Africa in pictures: 14-20 September 2012

Two boys from a fishing community in Terekaka, about 75km (44 miles) north of Juba – South Sudan's capital, watch over cattle on Monday. Cows play a vital role in the lives of many South Sudanese communities.

