

Eyewitness: Juba, South Sudan

Photographs from the Guardian Eyewitness series

Share 27

Tweet 16

+1 0

Email

guardian.co.uk, Saturday 4 August 2012 13.40 BST

Series
Eyewitness

Pro tip Often, photographers think they should avoid the subject looking direct to camera as it is thought to be cheesy, however, in certain circumstances, simple composition and eye contact produce powerful images

A young boy at a rubbish dump looks for food to eat or scours for iron to sell

Photograph: Camille Lepage / AFP/Getty Images

honeymoon in Cape Town. Photograph: Sang Tan/AP

12:29 BST

People from the Mundari tribe are pictured with their catch in Terekeka, a fishing community north of Juba in South Sudan. The Mandari are known for fishing with only spears and nets and for their cattle keeping traditions. Photograph: Camille LEPAGE/AFP/Getty Images

← 12 / 14 →

Exit gallery and go to previous page

Juba, South Sudan: a young South Sudanese girl prepares breakfast for her brother and sisters

Photograph: Camille Lepage/AFP/Getty Images

World news

Series

24 hours in pictures

More galleries

Welcome Camille, sign into the Guardian with Facebook

Camille Lep, Adam Foster and 252 other friends use The Guardian.

Fron+ierMEDEX GO FURTHER. DO MORE. International Travel Insurance GET FREE QUOTE»

theguardian

Your search terms... News Search

News Sport Comment Culture Business Money Life & style Travel Environment Video Dating Offers Jobs

News 24 hours in pictures

Series: 24 hours in pictures

Previous | Index

24 hours in pictures

A selection of the best images from around the world

Share 2 Tweet 5 +1 0 Email guardian.co.uk, Thursday 20 September 2012 15.08 BST

7 / 13 Exit gallery and go to previous page World news Series 24 hours in pictures More galleries Juba, South Sudan: A boy is given a lollipop by his father at the Konyo Konyo market Photograph: Camille Lepage/AFP/Getty Images

Ads by Google

1 Weird Photography Trick

Check out this one amazing trick for taking breathtaking pictures. UqlyHedqehoa.com

Download Free PDF Reader

Read Your PDF Files With Ease It's Free! downloadfreely.com/PDF

AdChoices

DO YOU KNOW? Which aircraft reflects the instruments? A B C D FIBONICCI

More from 24 hours in pictures

A selection of the best images from around the world.

Previous: Gallery (13 pictures): 19 Sep 2012: 24 hours in pictures

24 hours in pictures index

1.45pm GMT

A Sudanese woman laughs as she picks up her parasol felled by the wind next to her fruit and vegetables stand at Gudele market in Juba, South Sudan.

And a child from South Sudan's Bari tribe stands at the entrance to a compound near the market in Juba. Photographs: Camille Lepage/AFP /Getty Images